ABOUT WASHINGTON AND GEORGE HILL
The Hill Family Center for College Access was founded through the generosity of twin brothers Washington and George Hill, who grew up in Camden and graduated from Rutgers–Camden.

Washington Hill is an internationally recognized expert in high-risk maternal-fetal medicine. After having graduated from Rutgers–Camden in 1961, he earned his M.D. degree from Temple University. He then served as a medical officer in the U.S. Army for nine years before launching his private medical practice. He served as the 65th president of the Central Association of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, one of the nation’s oldest and most prestigious associations in that field.

George Hill is a scholar whose molecular and biochemical research has advanced biomedical science worldwide. He graduated from Rutgers–Camden in 1961, and then earned his M.S. degree from Howard University and his Ph.D. degree from New York University. An NIH postdoctoral fellow at Cambridge University, he also was elected a fellow to the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences and the Academy of Microbiology.

Washington and George are members of the Rutgers Hall of Distinguished Alumni, the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a Rutgers graduate.

Rutgers University–Camden
Hill Family Center for College Access
Paul Robeson Library, lower level
300 North Fourth Street, Camden, NJ 08102-1404

JarDaine Brown
College Access Coordinator
jardw24@camden.rutgers.edu
856-225-2885

camden.rutgers.edu/college-access
The Hill Family Center for College Access at Rutgers University–Camden specializes in providing pre-college academic services to local students in grades 6–12 and their families as they prepare for college.

We strive to develop the talents of students in Camden and the surrounding region during their pre-college years. Students are better positioned for success through our comprehensive support services, such as personal development activities, mentoring, and workshops. By providing the support and guidance they need, students are prepared to succeed in college.

POST-SECONDARY EDUCATION ADVISING
We assist students in making thoughtful decisions about their plans after high school, serving as knowledgeable guides for students and families by helping you come to a comfortable, informed decision about your next steps. We also help families complete financial aid documents and search for scholarships.

COLLEGE PATHWAYS SESSIONS
These sessions focus on engaging students in real-world, hands-on discussions. We provide information to help educate and prepare students for post-secondary challenges, opportunities, and choices, while supporting their ongoing success in current school coursework.

ACADEMIC ASSISTANCE
The center offers group and one-on-one assistance to students seeking help with homework, papers, class projects, and presentations.

PARENT OUTREACH
We eagerly encourage parents and legal guardians to come by the center and become active participants in the total development of their child from high school to college student.

WORKSHOPS
We offer pre-college workshops at our center at Rutgers–Camden and at schools and community-based organizations throughout the Delaware Valley region. Topics include:

- What Is College and Why Is It Important?
- What Is a Major?
- Jobs vs. Careers
- Important Offices on College Campuses

Who Can Benefit from the Hill Center?

- Students in grades 6–12
- Families in Camden and the surrounding area

What Schools Are Served?

- Any public or charter high school in Camden City
- High schools outside of Camden by request
- Camden City middle schools by request

How Do Students Benefit from the Hill Center?

- Better preparation for college success
- Help with the college application process
- Guidance with financial aid forms
- Early college awareness
ABOUT WASHINGTON AND GEORGE HILL
The Hill Family Center for College Access was founded through the generosity of twin brothers Washington and George Hill, who grew up in Camden and graduated from Rutgers–Camden.

Washington Hill is an internationally recognized expert in high-risk maternal-fetal medicine. After having graduated from Rutgers–Camden in 1961, he earned his M.D. degree from Temple University. He then served as a medical officer in the U.S. Army for nine years before launching his private medical practice. He served as the 65th president of the Central Association of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, one of the nation’s oldest and most prestigious associations in that field.

George Hill is a scholar whose molecular and biochemical research has advanced biomedical science worldwide. He graduated from Rutgers–Camden in 1961, and then earned his M.S. degree from Howard University and his Ph.D. degree from New York University. An NIH postdoctoral fellow at Cambridge University, he also was elected a fellow to the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences and the Academy of Microbiology.

Washington and George are members of the Rutgers Hall of Distinguished Alumni, the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a Rutgers graduate.

Rutgers University–Camden
Hill Family Center for College Access
Paul Robeson Library, lower level
300 North Fourth Street, Camden, NJ 08102-1404

JarDaine Brown
College Access Coordinator
jardw24@camden.rutgers.edu
856-225-2885

camden.rutgers.edu/college-access